

Bankruptcy Rules Change Support

Dear Sir or Madam:

As a bankruptcy attorney representing consumers I wish to express my support for the proposed rule changes that would require greater disclosure and itemization of claims asserted by creditors -- especially mortgage companies -- in order to provide greater transparency and certainty in the adjudication of consumer bankruptcy cases. Large commercial lending institutions have at their fingertips all the information concerning their customers' accounts and with a couple of mouse clicks, they can provide the information the proposed rules would require. If the bankruptcy process is to be more efficient, then consumers and their attorneys need to have adequate claim information from creditors in order to plan the consumer's bankruptcy case or to better evaluate alternatives to bankruptcy. Thank you for your kind consideration.
