Subject Bankruptcy Rules and Forms

I wholeheartedly agree with Judge Lundin's comments on the defects in B22C. It has created significant problems for debtor's attorneys trying to make sense out this whole mess. I particularly agree that some of the form's assumptions seek to make law out of what are essentially litigation positions and questionable interpretations of statute.

It is most disheartening that non-lawyer auditors will be using conflicting interpretations of how to fill this form out to make presumptive declarations of abuse. Our clients don't have the money to fund such fights. That's why they are filing bankruptcy.

Thank you.
